

DIGGERS

Shedding lane battler · 2–4 players · 15–20 min

OUTDIG THE CAMP NEXT DOOR. POACH THE BONES YOU NEED.

Rival paleontologists race to empty their hands, but when anyone goes out, the season ends and only the dig sites you hold score. Every pair of neighboring camps shares a site, and you take it with a better run or set, played from a hand you can never rearrange. For fans of Scout and Schotten Totten.

A two-player season in progress: three dig sites, each find on its owner's side of the board. Garden Park is held with a suited Triceratops run.

On your turn, do one

1 Excavate
Play cards that sit side by side in your hand as a run or a set. Beat the find at a site beside you and the site is yours.

2 Or poach
Take an end card off a rival's find, slot it anywhere in your hand, and send them one of yours.

3 Go out
Empty your hand and the season ends. Every site you hold scores 1, then 2, then 4 prestige.

Lanes for up to four

Most lane battlers are two-player only. Here a site sits between every pair of neighbors, so one deck plays as a duel or a four-way ring.

A race with teeth

Going out ends the season for everyone. Shedding isn't just a race to finish; it's how you lock in the sites while you're ahead.

The theme scores

Every card is a bone, and each species' nine cards make a full skeleton. More cards wins, and a run from one skeleton outranks a set.

2–4 players

15–20 minutes, three seasons

45 cards, 4 site boards, 4 guides

Ready now: full rules, a print-and-play kit, and a browser demo with a tutorial and bots. Hand sizes, deck sizes and scoring were tuned over thousands of simulated games.

Play it now

Darren Don, What's Good Board Games, darren@whatsgoodboardgames.com