SIX COLORS, EIGHT EACH

THE GAME

Players roll in the open and take turns sending four dice to rivals' jobs. Each host builds a crew of one low, one middle and one high die from what they were sent, scores it, and pays the crew with the dice they kept. Deals are made out loud, and none of them are binding.

WHY IT STANDS OUT

- Your rivals staff your jobs. Your crew is made only of dice your rivals chose to send you, so every job needs a deal.
- Who keeps their word. Promises are made out loud and cuts are paid in secret, so a broken promise costs you on the next job.
- Off-the-shelf parts. 48 standard dice and six cards, with no custom components.
